GLASS PLANT STARTED

Ground Broken For the Ohio Company's Factory.

GENERAL MANAGER ARRIVES

Alexander Humphrey, of Cincinnati, is Here With Secretary Roedelheim to Push The Work.

Coshocton's second glass manufacturing concern, the Ohio State Glass company, expects to have its plant completed and in operation in 60 days. It wants to work two months of this time.

Secretary S. M. Roedelheim is here
from Pittsburgh to begin operations.
He is accompanied by Alexander Humphrey, formerly of the Charles Boddie Glass company of Cincinnati, who has been made general manager of the Ohio Glass company, and will have charge of the construction and operation of the plant.

The ground is frozen to a depth of 18 inches and the work of excavation will be attended by unusual difficulties, but the company is determined to have the work done and will lose no time. The excavation will be made as soon as possible and immediately afterward a force will be put on the buildings. Mr. Roedelheim stated to THE AGE that it would be necessary to change the original plans of the buildings but it will not cut down
the amount of space to be occupied.

The company has been chartered under the laws of New Jersey with a capital stock of $50,000. The officers are: President, G. R. McQuade; secretary, S. M. Roedelheim; treasurer, H.
L. Greer. There are other stockholders, but these gentlemen are the principal parties interested.

The plant will cover large space and all machinery and material has been ordered. The tank is what is known as a nine ring continuous tank
and will be in operation day and night giving employment to 25 men at good wages. The company will employ 54 blowers and will make prescriptions and a general line of bottles.
The force will be organized and everything in readiness by the time the plant is completed. Large quantities of brick and steel will be used in the construction of the plant, but they have been bought and are ready for shipment.

General Manager Humphrey has had wide experience in the construction and operation of glass factories and assumes the duties of his new position with a good reputation already made. He is vigorous and does not allow the grass to grow about any enterprise with which he is connected,
and for that reason the company depends on him to have the plant completed in 60 days.

Secretary Roedelheim will spend much of his time in Coshocton until the plant is completed, and when operations are commenced he will become a regular resident of the city.
He is much encouraged at the prospect, and thinks the enterprise will be a complete success.

NEW BUILDING AND LOAN.

The Coshocton Company has been Organized For Business in the County.

The Coshocton Building & Loan company with an authorized capital of $200,000 was chartered in Columbus
Monday, and the organization was effected at a meeting held in the office of R. A. Powell Tuesday afternoon.

The directors are Dr. Hutton, W. A.
Smith, J. E. Glass, T. J. Hanley, R. A.
Powell, Doctor Marshall and E. E.
Wertz. The officers are: President,
Dr. Hutton; vice president, J. E.
Glass; secretary and treasurer, W. A.
Smith; attorney, R. A. Powell.

The company enters the Coshocton field with excellent prospects for success. It will do business only in Coshocton county and is limited to 2,000 shares of $100 each. The officers look upon the deed as one of the best in Ohio, and will aim to make the association one of the best and strongest in Central Ohio. Both installment running and paid up shares will be offered the people of Coshocton.
The interest already manifested in the company is of the most encouraging nature.

The office of the company will be in W. A. Smith's store, Park hotel building.

SHE SPRINKLED ASHES

Around The Fallen Horse and Allowed it to Gain a Foothold.

An unusual scene was witnessed on South Ninth Tuesday afternoon. A horse had slipped on the ice and fallen and every effort of the driver to make it rise was without success. The owner, anxious to get the horse out of the predicament, continued to whip and could not gain a foothold. The scene had attracted the attention of a lady living near and she pitied the poor animal so that she raked her brain
for some plan by which she could aid it to rise. At length the thought came, and seizing a bucket filled with ashes she ran into the street. Scattering the ashes at advantageous points about the horse she was quickly rewarded by seeing the animal secure a footing and rise to its feet. The horse could not thank her but the driver did.

TEN MILES AN HOUR

New Speed Allowed Trains In Misdemeanor Law.

THE LONG MEASURE PASSED

After Engineer Culbertson of the Pan Handle Had Conferred With Council.

Councilmen Timmons, Stewart, Mc-Naughton and Barcroft, the faithful members who look after the city's business, were present when Mayor Cassingham called the meeting to order Tuesday evening. They transacted important business before the hour of adjournment.

There were no changes in the minutes as read by Clerk Wagner, and the mayor announced the disposition of the misdemeanor ordinance as the most important business of the evening. Engineer Culbertson, of the Pan Handle, was present with Agent Mc-Ginnis to look after the company's interests in the railroad sections.

On the suggestion of Mr. Timmons the railroad sections that had been amended by ordinance committee were read. Section 30 placed the speed at which trains are to be run through the city at six miles an hour, and prohibits the making of running switches over crossings. Mr. Culbertson explained that ten miles an hour was not too fast. He explained that if engineers were instructed to run ten miles an hour they would adhere to the rule.

Mr. Timmons said that it was the general impression that six miles an hour meant ten, as it would be impossible to convict an engineer going at six, because it would be impossible to gauge the speed.

Mr. Culbertson offered to see that engineers who violated the speed ordinance were punished by the company if they refused to come to Coshocton and be punished.

Mayor Cassingham explained that now the engine or caboose number was taken and reported to the proper railway official. All efforts to catch engineers have been successful under this system except in one instance. In three years there have been perhaps 50 cases. As a rule they were running on time orders and using an immense pressure of steam. The mayor expressed the belief that every day trains passed over the crossing at from ten to 15 miles an hour, but not under a heavy head of steam and consequently not attracting much attention.

Mr. Stewart thought ten miles an hour if that rate could be enforced
was right, and Solicitor McDowell pointed out that it would be almost impossible to convict if the company made a light.

Mr. Culbertson said they had 13 crossings in Steubenville, nine in Newark and three in Carnegie where 2,000 engines were recorded as crossing in a day and many people went that way without accident.

Mayor Cassingham showed that a great many school children cross the Pan Handle in Coshocton and the danger was there. Mr. Culbertson replied that where one child was killed by a railroad six men met death.

The mayor cut the danger at Main street crossing when children were on their way home at noon, and passenger trains were coming in. He also noted the danger when trains passed on the crossing at high speed.

Mr. Culbertson said some trains were three quarters of a mile long,
and if the rate was ten miles an hour crossings would be blocked seven and a half minutes. Slow trains, he said, were an invitation for young men to jump them, and to prove it pointed out that one had been hurt in West Lafayette since the grade was cut down and trains run faster.

All members of council were willing to make the rate ten if the company would run at that rate, and the speed made was not cut. The mayor said the next section deals with the obstruction of crossings, and placed the limit at three minutes. A period of five minutes must elapse between separate obstructions. These sections do not deal with moving trains.

Mr. Culbertson objected on the ground that because of the double track one train may vacate a crossing just as another on the second track would go on it. He was informed that this would not be looked upon as a violation of the section. It was also explained to Mr. Culbertson that the sections were intended to deal with men who maliciously blocked a crossing.

Mr. Culbertson also objected to the time, three minutes, but when it was shown that the crossing would be obstructed some time before anyone would begin counting three minutes
he was apparently satisfied.

That ended the amendments to the long ordinance, and Clerk Wagner read it before its final passage. Every member voted for the bill.

After a recess council took up the extension of the Main street sewer.
Right of way must be secured for an outlet, and the matter will be considered by the mayor and engineer.

Mr. Timmons remarked that since Enumerators Ayers was about done counting the people of Coshocton a meeting should be held next Tuesday to decide on ward boundaries. The mayor thought it would be better to call a special session as the count is complete, and that was decided on.
Every ward is being placed in order that the city may be guided in dividing the city into wards. The enumerator's estimate is that there are 8,000 people in the city, but in order to be on the safe side they will be recorded in a book with a capacity for 10,000 names.

Engineer Hanlon's estimate on the Cherry and Chestnut-Main sewers were given, the former at $1500 and the latter $1100. He would like to have this work done by the time con-

facts are set for paying and the clerk was authorized to advertise the sale of bonds. The bonds will bear interest at four and one-half per cent.

Mayor Cassingham was instructed to have Engineer Hanlon prepare the assessing ordinances for Main, Chestnut, Cherry and South Seventh between Main and Walnut. The Cherry ward ordinance was passed, and council went into executive session to consider the question of wards.

trict who was their representative at the Indianapolis convention. The miners' salary question was raised and a committee was appointed to look into the matter.

THE BILL NOT PAID

Because all Members of Council Were Not Present.

The bill of Nicholas & Merrill and Former Solicitor Voorhees was not paid by council Tuesday evening. The special committee, Mr. Timmons and Mr. Stewart, reported that they had conferred with Attorney Voorhees and he in the absence of Mr. Nicholas had refused to reduce the amount.
$200. Council deferred after discussing the matter that the bill ought not to be passed until all members were present. As Mr. Rinner and Mr.
Brooke were absent the bill went over to the next meeting when the majority of council hope all members will be present.

FIGHT FOR THE CANAL

Coshocton and Roscoe Men Are in Columbus.

WILL MAKE VIGOROUS WARFARE

They Not Only Want The Painter Bill Killed
But They Are After Many Needed
Improvements.

Coshocton and Roscoe men who are directly interested in the Ohio canal
have gone to Columbus to work against the passage of the Painter abandonment measure. They also want the canal improved.

Coshocton county is represented in Columbus by J. S. Elliott, Thomas Lekettley, E. C. Gleason, Edwin S.
Lee, Charles Renner, R. A. Powell,
General Lybarger, and Superintendent Geidel. Other members of the canal association, formed last week in Dennison, are there to unite with the Miami association and many other interested parties in a vigorous warfare against the Painter bill. It is a matter of the preservation of their business with many of these men and they expect to continue the fight until the bill is killed.

They will ask improvements for the canals of Ohio on the ground that they have been starved in appropriations until the canals have fallen into decay and are not capable of producing an income commensurate with the cost of maintenance.

RECOVERED THE WATCH

Another Proof That it Pays to Advertise in
The Age.

The watch advertised in THE AGE
by Milton Trovinger has been returned to its owner, proving again that it pays to advertise in THE AGE.
Before the heavy snow came a lady lost her gold watch and advertised the fact, but the watch was not returned. The other day Mr. Trovinger's son found a gold watch and an advertisement was inserted in THE AGE. It was seen by the lady who called on Mr. Trovinger, and proved the watch was the one she had lost weeks ago. It had been hidden in the snow.

SPENT A CHILLY NIGHT.

Horse Almost Frozen Stood in an Alley for Hours.

A horse attached to a light wagon was taken to the Stevenson stable in the rear of North Third this morning by Turnkey Decker, of city hall. The horse had been standing in the alley near Renner's ice house all of the night and was almost frozen. It was given a good breakfast and made as comfortable as possible. It was claimed by Tim McDermott at noon.

BROKE HER ARM.

Mrs. William Rodgers Fell in the Yard and Was Seriously Hurt.

Mrs. William Rodgers, who lives on the Plainfield road, three miles from the city, is suffering from a broken arm. The lady was on the way to the coalhouse when she slipped on the ice and fell. Her arm was doubled under her, and the fracture resulting is severe. The arm is broken between the wrist and the elbow.

JOHN L.'S AWFUL THIRST.

Ex-Champion Pugilist Says It Broke Up His Show.

With the air of a man to whom a financial crash is but an incident in the life of a career, John L. Sullivan accounted for the collapse of his "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show in Jersey City the other day by saying simply:

"The whole trouble was that my awful thirst broke up the show."

None of the members of the company disagreed with John L. Frank Remington, the lawyer Marks of the company, said:

"The trouble was we couldn't make money fast enough to pay John L.'s hotel bills. He must have consumed an awful lot of food."

"Food? Food is good. You mean the old hard stuff," grunted the actor-pugilist. "But I have reformed. It's nothing but cold, cold water for yours truly after this. I am going to be a pattern for every boy in the land. Proud mothers can tell their sons to follow in John L.'s footsteps, and they'll be led every time to the ice cooler. It's going to be a sad story for the whisky trust from now on. They'll miss my thirst all right. I've got a friend in Cedar Springs, N. Y., who keeps a hotel. I'm going there and drink all the water in the town. When I get back to New York, I'll be a sight. Strangers will point at me and say, 'There's a man who never had a drink in his life.'"

Melancholy indeed was the outlook which confronted Uncle Tom, Topsy, Little Eva, Eliza, Simon Legree, Lawyer Marks and several slaves when they awoke the other morning in the show's car in the yards of the Pennsylvania road, says the New York World. George B. Downing, manager of the company, had faded away unexpectedly, regardless of a financial stringency existing in the outside it was cold. There was a couple of slaves in the car, but they were not to be a good thing. They tried to cheer Eliza's spirits by telling her that the river was full of ice and that she could easily walk across to New York.

George Watson, the porter in charge of the car, brought matters to a head. There was $20 coming to him for services. Quietly he went up to the district court in the city hall and got out his Colic.

H. Seever, a carpenter and builder, of Kenton, Tenn., when suffering intensely from an attack of bilious colic, sent to a nearby drug store for something to relieve him. The druggist sent him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, three doses of which effected a permanent cure. This is the only remedy that can be depended upon in the most severe cases of colic and cholera morbus. Most druggists know this and recommend it when such a medicine is called for. For sale by C. E. an attachment on the cakes of ice and other scenery in the car. That was the final blow.

No very violent protest had been made at Trenton, where the company played to a one hundred and fifty dollar house and where John L.'s "food" bill in one evening amounted to $23. The reason was that one of the slaves had unguardedly protested at another Jersey town, where most of the receipts had been swept away to meet the ex-champion's "food" bill and he had received the punishment that old John L. used to administer to his ring victims.

"How could any show support a thirst like that?" whispered Little Eva, pointing in the direction of Simon Legree, otherwise Mr. Sullivan. The ex-champion rose to the occasion.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "yours truly is not doing any ducking or side stepping to dodge the fact that his horrible thirst has caused all this trouble. I've got some friends left. You'll all get breakfast, anyway, and get over to New York on the ferry. Those cakes of ice are too slippery. Even Eliza might fall in, and the water is real!"

Mr. Remington later produced the $23. His father has a prosperous saloon in Jersey City and is a great admirer of Mr. Sullivan. When he got the $23, John L. shared it with the company, giving each one more than he retained himself. The company promptly disbanded.

PHOTOGRAPHS ON FABRICS.

Altoona (Pa.) Man's Experiments With a New Process.

Clarence R. Obiviller of Altoona, a graduate of Lehigh university, is experimenting with a process for reproducing photographs on fabrics.

The method consists in a deposition of silver, gold and platinum from various salts of those metals, says the Philadelphia Press. It is said to be satisfactory in every respect, and the work has been subjected to extreme tests to insure its absolute permanence. A print was boiled in water for a quarter of an hour, and no change was noticeable after boiling. The picture is not only on the surface, but extends through the fabric.

ELEVATOR BROKE,

Throwing Two Men to the Cellar Below and Causing Instant Death.

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—Harry J. Wilson and Fred D. Hill, structural iron workers on the Scofield building, at the corner of Erie street and Euclid avenue, were killed by falling four stories to the ground. The men were descending in an elevator. A large timber projecting from the elevator caught in a passing floor and tore the floor of the elevator out, allowing the men to drop the awful distance. Both were dead when picked up.

Insane Woman Suicides.

Columbus, O., Feb. 19.—In a spell of dementia, Mrs. Luella Hellicenthal of 327 East Cherry street took her own life by shooting herself through the right temple with a revolver.

Plate Mill to Reopen.

Warren, O., Feb. 19.—The plate mill of the Falcon plant, American Sheet Steel company, at Niles, is being put in shape for operation.

Many Families Homeless.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Twenty-six families were burned out in a fire that destroyed the 4-story apartment building located at Fifty-sixth street and Madison avenue. Many women and children were compelled to leave the building by way of the fire escapes, aided by the firemen, but all the occupants of the structure have been accounted for. Loss $100,000.

Rheumatism and Liver Complaint

Mrs. S. C. Abel, of Syracuse, N. Y., says she suffered from this serious complaint for many years. Physicians' treatment did no good, and she finally became too ill to walk. She then took Favorite Remedy, which had her back at once, and after taking six bottles she was cured.

Bill to Redeem Silver in Gold Incidentally Discussed—The President's Position on Trusts Criticized—Date Set in the Senate for Final Disposition of the Philippine Tariff Bill.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The speech of Mr. Wheeler of Kentucky in the house last Friday, when he bitterly assailed Secretary Hay and Lord Paunceforte and criticized the official preparations for the reception of Prince Henry, had a sequel in the house during the debate on the Indian appropriation bill. Mr. Gillett (Mass.) in a half hour's speech declared that the intemperance of Mr. Wheeler's language carried its own condemnation. Nevertheless, he gravely deplored such an affront to a foreign country. During the course of the speech two Democrats, Robinson of Indiana and Thayer of Massachusetts, disclaimed any sympathy with Mr. Wheeler's utterances. Those disclaimers drew from Mr. Taft of South Carolina a statement that he desired to share in the responsibility of Mr. Wheeler, every word of which he said he indorsed. Mr. Wheeler himself subsequently replied to Mr. Gillett, reaffirming what he had said and declaring that he would stand by his words whether they were discreet or not. He read a number of letters, telegrams, and one cablegram from London commending his utterances. The incident was the feature of the day.

Early in the session Mr. Hill of Connecticut and Mr. Shafroth of Colorado discussed the former's bill to redeem silver in gold. Mr. Burlington of Texas criticized the president for changing his position on trusts. Other speakers were Reed (Dem., Ark.), Sutherland (Rep., Utah), Padgett (Dem., Tenn.), Poy (Dem., S. C.) and Robinson (Dem., Ind.).

Mr. Burlington of Texas criticized the president for changing his position on trusts. Other speakers were Reed (Dem., Ark.), Sutherland (Rep., Utah), Padgett (Dem., Tenn.), Poy (Dem., S. C.) and Robinson (Dem., Ind.).

The Indian bill itself was not touched in the speechmaking.

In the Senate.

It was agreed at Tuesday's session of the senate that a final vote on the amendments should be taken next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The only stipulation made by the minority was that the last day's debate should be devoted to speeches not exceeding 15 minutes in duration.

Senator Wellington of Maryland spoke in opposition to the pending bill and Senator Stewart of Nevada in support of the measure. Mr. Wellington's address covered the Philippine question generally. He set forth his well known views forcibly. He had always been a Republican, he said, a believer in the system of protection and a supporter of the gold standard of currency, but had come to the parting of the ways with his party in 1898 when it developed "its imperialistic tendencies." He opposed the pending tariff bill because he did not think congress had the right to enact legislation by which people were taxed without representation and governed without their consent.

Mr. Stewart made a brief legal and constitutional argument in support of the authority of congress to hold the Philippines and to provide a proper government for their inhabitants.

Miss Stone Released.

Paris, Feb. 19.—The Temps publishes a dispatch from Constantinople which announces that Miss Ellen M. Stone has been released by the brigands, who have held her captive since Sept. 3 last, and has been handed over in good health to the dragoman of the American legation. The dispatch adds that "Rev. Tsilika" has been arrested on the charge of complicity in the kidnapping of Miss Stone. Rev. Tsilika is the husband of Mme. Tsilika, Miss Stone's companion. It was announced that the Turkish authorities suspected the Rev. Tsilika of complicity in the abduction of the missionaries.

Lived in Three Centuries.

Springfield, Mo., Feb. 19.—James Alexander, 163, died here. He was never ill until two weeks ago, when he fell on an icy pavement, dislocated a shoulder and broke an arm. He saddled the horse his father rode to enlist in the Union army, but he was refused on account of old age. He came to Springfield in 1843 from Biount county, Tenn.

Postmaster Suicides.

Hastings, Neb., Feb. 19.—Louis B. Partridge, postmaster at Kenesaw, this county, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. He died almost instantly. A postoffice inspector began an investigation of his books and confronted the postmaster with what he asserted was a falsification of $1,500. Partridge made no explanation and went home and shot himself.

Strikers to Return to Work.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 19.—Twenty-five of the streetcar strikers who were expelled from the union for complaining of the executive committee's failure to accomplish anything towards settling the strike, have decided to return to work in a body.

Gone to His Reward.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 19.—The Rev. N. H. Phillips, 73, one of the best known preachers in the northern Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, died here. He was one of the early upbuilders of Methodism in Indiana.

A BURNING QUESTION

Who Drafted the Note Submitted by Lord Paunceforte?

Washington, Feb. 19.—Because of a report in circulation here that Lord Paunceforte did not draft the note of April 14, 1898, submitted by him to the foreign ambassadors as a final effort to avert the war between the United States and Spain, and that the note had been framed at the state department and forwarded thence to Lord Paunceforte for submission to the diplomatic corps in Washington, Judge Day, who was then secretary of state, was telegraphed to Lord Paunceforte to say that the subject of the telegram to Judge Day was as follows: "Statement is made here that Paunceforte note of April 14, 1898, was drawn by you in the state department. Is this correct?" The following reply was received from Judge Day: "Impossible to reply to indefinite statement of your telegram."

Miners' Narrow Escape.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 19.—The great Treadwell mines on Douglass island were assailed by fire, and a large loss of life was prevented by the almost superhuman attempts of everybody who could reach the scene to stay the progress of the flames. The steamer Dirigo brought particulars of the fire. The Alaskan-American compressor building was entirely destroyed. Thirty-eight thousand dollars worth of stamps and a 120-stamp mill with the engine room, were saved. More than 100 miners were in the lower workings and in imminent danger of death.

Bishop Hartzell's Opinion.

London, Feb. 19.—The Daily Chronicle in its Cape Town letter gives the opinions of Dr. Joseph C. Hartzell of Cincinnati, missionary bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church in Africa, concerning the refugee camps. Bishop Hartzell thinks the formation of these camps was a wise military move and that they are likely to prove a most important factor in future settlement, because of the education of the Boers in the matter of hygienic laws as well as in other directions affecting social life.

Will Await Developments.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Hon. William Mullock, postmaster general, was seen in regard to the statement of the London Telegraph that Canada intended building a cable in addition to the other transatlantic lines. The postmaster general said owing to the pressure of other public work, and also that the Marconi system was under trial, it was inopportune to do anything at the present time.

Appeal to Roosevelt.

Brussels, Feb. 19.—The Belgian League for the Rights of Man has addressed an appeal to President Roosevelt asking him "for the love of God" to intervene to prevent the possible execution of the Boer commandant Kritzinger and others. Commandant Kritzinger was captured by General French last December. His trial in South Africa began Feb. 15.

Prince Sentenced.

Kansas City, Feb. 19.—William Prince was formally sentenced to two years in prison. Prince was found guilty of complicity in the murder of his brother-in-law, Philip H. Kennedy. Prince's sister, who did the killing, was given a 10-year sentence, and her father and another brother are still awaiting trial for complicity.

Omnibus Claims Bill.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The committee on claims authorized a favorable report on the omnibus bill, and later in the day Senator Warren reported the bill to the senate. As reported, the bill provides for the payment of about 400 claims, and makes an aggregate appropriation of $2,051,542.

Increase of Capital Stock.

Philadelphia, Feb. 19.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Bell Telephone company of Philadelphia, it was voted to increase capital stock of the company from $5,000,000 to $12,000,000. The purpose of the increase was not announced.

LOCAL ISSUES RULED

Light Vote Cast in the Pennsylvania Elections.

SNOW MADE THE ROADS IMPASSABLE

Philadelphia Remains Republican and Pittsburgh Is Swept by a Coalition of Independent Republicans and Democrats—Harrisburg Goes Democratic and Lancaster Republican.

Philadelphia, Feb. 19.—Elections were held throughout Pennsylvania Tuesday for municipal and borough officers. In some sections of the state the recent heavy snow storm had made the roads almost impassable and a light vote was the result, but in most sections a heavy vote was polled, especially in the larger cities. Local issues predominated in the various contests, general politics not entering as a rule in the settlement of the fights. Thus in Philadelphia the candidates supported by the Republican city and state leaders swept everything, electing all the candidates for the more important offices and nearly all the ward officers. This also included a big majority for the $500,000 improvement loan. On the other hand, Pittsburgh was carried by those opposing the state and city administrations, the independent Republicans having formed coalition with the Democrats under the head of the Citizens' party.

In the other cities, as stated, local issues were fought out. Scranton elected P. W. Costello, Democrat, for mayor. Wilkesbarre elected a Republican mayor, Charles H. Price. Reading gave 550 majority for Edward Yeager, Democrat, for mayor.

At Harrisburg, Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic candidate for mayor, is elected by 2,000 majority. McCormick is but 29 years old and was captain of Yale's football team of 1892.

At Lancaster the anti-Quay Republicans joined with Democrats against Chester Cummings. The Quay Republican candidate for mayor, but Cummings was elected by nearly 1,200 majority.

At midnight a conservative estimate at Pittsburgh indicates that the administration has saved five out of 19 selectmen and 12 out of 51 common councilmen. Republican City Chairman J. Q. Brown concedes the election of Larkin (Citizens) by about 5,000 majority, but would give no figures on council.

Thanks of Boer Delegation.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Representative Cochran of Missouri two weeks ago introduced a resolution inviting Paul Kruger to visit the United States as the guest of this country. Mr. Cochran received a letter signed by three members of the Boer delegation quartered at Brussels, thanking him and all who are supporting his efforts for the noble interest they are taking in the two Boer republics. The letter reviews from the Boer standpoint the causes which led up to the war, and declared that Great Britain invented pretext after pretext to bring on the conflict, and that her whole purpose was to secure extensive gold mines of the Transvaal in pursuance of a settled national policy to control all gold mines, wherever possible, either by purchase or seizure. In order that Great Britain may command the world's industries. The letter in closing appeals to "heroic and generous America" to intervene in behalf of the Boers, and says: "Since England will not permit friendly intervention, invite her to a congress of the nations and see whether such a congress, called in the interest of peace, will be ignored. England will not dare to refuse to attend such a congress if called by the United States and participated in by four or five of the powers."

Big Blaze at Louisville.

Louisville, Feb. 18.—Fire completely destroyed the plant of the Louisville Bolt and Iron company, causing a loss of $100,000. The flames started in the leading room of the mills. A pipe carrying crude oil to the furnaces exploded and the oil coming in contact with molten metal at once began to blaze furiously. By the time the engines arrived the fire had gained such headway that it could not be checked and the entire plant covering two and one-half acres was soon burned, firemen being handicapped by frozen water plugs and an insufficient supply of water.

Ice Gorge in Ohio.

Louisville, Feb. 19.—An ice gorge eight miles long has formed in the Ohio river just above Louisville. The ice began piling up at midday Monday against the piers of the Big Four railroad bridge. In order to keep accessible the coal barges tied up at "Pumpkin Patch" the Monongahela Coal company's tugboat, Coal City, kept a channel clear as far up as the Patch.

Other Arrests Looked For.

Fulton, Ky., Feb. 19.—O. R. M. Ports and Harry Braxley were arrested here charged with killing Bill Doherty, the negro who was taken from his home up here on Friday night and assassinated. Other arrests may follow.

To Confer on Cuban Reciprocity.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee announced a conference of the Republican members of the committee at 11 o'clock on the subject of Cuban reciprocity.

FACTS ABOUT KOREA.

Russia and Japan Have Long Struggled to Control Its Destinies.

One of the most important features of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is the effect it may have upon the long standing rivalry between Russia and Japan for the control of Korea, says the New York World. Both countries covet the peninsula stretching out between China and Japan and which only in the last few years has, like Japan, awakened to progress and civilization.

Russia has been gaining a stronger foothold every year in the "Hermit Kingdom," and rumors of serious trouble between Russia and Japan have been frequent of late years. Japan regards with great alarm the growth of Russia's power in Korea. A Russian whaling company based three ports in Korea two years ago, Oulsan, Suiguchi and Chimpodo. This concession was 500 meters in length and 300 in width.

Korea was declared independent as a result of the China-Japanese war. To celebrate the event the king declared himself emperor and consequently the equal of the rulers of China, Japan and Russia.

Japan has bitterly opposed the growing encroachments of Russia in Korea. Korea and Japan are intimately connected, their people not being unlike. The island of Tsuchima, owned by Japan, is in sight of Korea, and this island is only a short distance from the mainland of Japan.

Japan wanted Korea for obvious reasons, but Russia opposed her, because such a deal would bring Japan right to the doors of Manchuria. So long as one power could keep the other from possessing Korea it was satisfied. It has been a question whether Japan or Russia was the stronger in Korea. Well informed men have regarded Korea as the storm center of the east. The emperor is despotic and unprogressive, and Russia has been described as playing with Korea as a cat plays with a mouse.

Until a few years ago less was known of Korea than of almost any nation. Its frontiers toward Manchuria and Siberia are defended by high mountain ranges, and its long line of coast presents scarcely any harbor of any account. The whole country is very hilly and mountainous.

PRIZE FOR FOOTBALL YELL

Missouri University Team Has Matter Under Discussion.

A different "yell" may inspire the football braves of Missouri State university on to triumph over Kansas next year, says a special dispatch from Columbia, Mo., to the St. Louis Republic. A movement is on foot to replace the "Rah, rah, rah, Moo-zou-ri, M. S. uni-ver-si-tee." For several years there has been urged by some the changing of the yell, but until this season memories clinging around the historic old verse have successfully pleaded its tolerance. It has, however, been made to share honors with "Tiger, tiger, M. S. U.," and last November the organized mob of rooters who filled the west bleachers in Athletic park frequently brought in a third stirring stanza.

In view of all this and because of continued urging upon the athletic supporters, Dr. C. W. Heatherington has offered a cash prize to any student of the university or other person who will submit a better and more appropriate yell. The amount offered is $5, Professors Manly, Curtis, Burnett, C. B. Davis and W. T. Nardin judges, to make known their decision not later than April 1.

The main thing argued against the old yell is that the syllables are not of the proper vowels, so that it requires extra effort to make as much noise as could be made with other vowels. The old yell is not without supporters, however, and it is not certain that the new one, if at all, will immediately supplant the old one.

QUEEN OF OUR NAVY.

Battleship Illinois Surpasses Fast Oregon, Alabama and Kearsarge.

The new battleship Illinois is queen of the United States navy today, for in her recent rigorous test from Newport to New York she surpassed in speed, power and efficiency the Oregon, Alabama and her sister ship the Kearsarge, which she beats by half a knot, says the New York Evening Journal. The speed was

What Morgan Made In 1901.

Two well informed Wall street men were discussing J. Pierpont Morgan. Said one, according to the New York Press, "I have had a long talk with a member of his firm, and while he let fall no secrets, yet from what I could gather Mr. Morgan made last year $42,000,000." The other agreed that the estimate was practically correct from what he could learn.

The Unsubdued—The Boers.

Our tears, our wounds, our sorrows! Tea,
But what of them, whose monstrous
agony towers
Darkening the noon? Their woe out-matched ours
As Alps the Wrekin. No soft hands ally
Their giant pain. A whole world's wonder, they Fight their torn fight against invincible
powers.
From earth's rough breast their tragic valor flows.
Fostered in tempest through the thunderous day, Calamity makes them great. Have we alone
No eyes when all men witness and acclaim?
Bruised, broken in shards, this people
naught can name:
They have a heart that cannot be o'er-thrown.
Time shall yet hear, through all his highways blown,
The far lamentations of their fame.

Decided to Sell.

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—According to Chairman Newcomb of the bankers' committee, the Big Consolidated streetcar system will change hands within a week, the transfer of stock meaning a practical turning over of the road to a new management. The bankers' committee has decided to sell the stock outright, and in pursuance of this project has turned down the offers to lease perpetually or for a long term of years.

Something That Will Do You Good.

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, colds, and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. But its prompt use we haven't any doubt but that it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their homes as a safeguard against croup—Camden (S. C.) METEOR'S STEERING GEAR.

How the German Emperor's Yacht Will Be Guided.

The German emperor's schooner yacht, the Meteor, will have a steering apparatus which has been specially designed for the yacht by G. D. Lord, treasurer of the Elson Manufacturing company of Boston, which is thus described by the Boston Transcript:

"The new steering gear works with wonderful ease—in fact, a child can manipulate it with facility. There is also not the slightest loss of motion in the fore and aft movement of the rudder. The rudder is forward and the other half of the rudder lead, with the connecting straps. The outside diameter of this triple thread screw is 18 inches. The pitch of the screw is 1 1/2 inches. The connecting straps are of Norway iron, the twisting part being of gun metal. The idea of the power of the steering gear may be gained from the statement that a single turning of the crank in the rudder head causes a steady test of 20,000 pounds to the square inch before breaking, the test having been made by Professor E. P. Moore of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The rudder lead swivel box is made of gun metal, while the rudder lead is of steel, 3/4 inches in diameter. The rudder post has a rake of 33 degrees. The ball bearing supports for the rudder post rest on thirty-two steel blocks, running on case hardened steel plates, with four adjusting screws, which provide for the wearing strain on the rudder pintles. The gear is also provided with two radial boxes, one forward and one aft, with rubber springs. It takes five and a half turns of the wheel to turn the rudder from hard up to hard down, 45 degrees in each direction.

"The landsman will perhaps be more attracted to the wheel, which is certainly a thing of beauty. It is fifty-four inches in diameter from tip to tip. The hub is of highly polished brass. There are ten rosewood spokes, the felloes being of teak and the rim of ebony. Where the king spoke passes through there is inlaid in the rim the coat of arms of the German emperor done in gold and silver. On the remaining part of the rim at each spoke is set the German cross. The tip of the king spoke bears the German crown in German silver, while the tips of the remaining spokes bear plain caps of the same metal. The wheel alone was made at a cost of $500."

BIG SEA EXCURSION.

The Celtic Off For Foreign Cruise With Eight Hundred Tourists.

The White Star steamer Celtic has just started under special charter for the Mediterranean and oriental ports, carrying a party of 800 passengers, representing pretty much every state of the Union, says the New York Times. Among the tourists are persons prominent in almost every walk of life and many of national reputation. It is a cruise very much on the order of that of the Quaker City, on which Mark Twain made his famous trip in 1866, which resulted in the immortal "Innocents Abroad." There are 75 ministers among the number and 175 unmarried women. There are about the same number of bank officials.

A coterie of Bible students who are among the pilgrims have organized a reading and lecture club for the trip, with over 100 on its rolls. The Bible students have planned several instructive entertainments to help their fellow voyagers while away the time on ship-board.

The Celtic is prepared to furnish food for the seventy-five days of the cruise to all on board absolutely regardless of the foreign markets. Some idea of the magnitude of the commissary department and its supplies can be gained from a few of the items and the amount of each carried. There are in cold storage eighty-five tons of fresh beef, sixty tons of potatoes, five tons of fresh fish, ten tons of sugar and 50,000 fresh eggs.

TRAINED WOLVES.

Illinois Man Uses Them Successfully In Hunting Rabbits.

Best Decker, a young sportsman of Tinian, Ill., has succeeded in training two wolves, and they are very valuable as hunters, writes the Chicago Tribune. He captured them when young, raised them as "kittens" and now, though they are as large as sheep-hound dogs, they are quite tame and playful. Decker says the wolves can outrun dogs on the land and are very hard-winded. Their favorite way of capturing a rabbit is to run at a side of him, put their nose under his, control and then the wolf will come from the side, catching him in its mouth as he falls. The wolf will always return to its master when called.

Decker's success has caused other sportsmen to undertake the training of wolves to support deer in winter, and it is probable that wolves will find a place in future hunts.

Unknown Long Island Indians.

Professor W. J. McGee of the Bureau of ethnology is contemplating a visit to the east part of Long Island for the purpose of studying the Indians who live there, says the Brooklyn Eagle. He says that some remnants of the Montauk and Shinnecock tribes reside near the eastern end of Long Island and that he wants to live among them and find out to what extent they preserve their aboriginal language and customs. At present the bureau of ethnology knows very little about these Indians.

DOOM OF THE MOSQUITO

How It Is Proposed to Rid New Jersey of Its Pest.

BIG APPROPRIATION NEEDED.

Legislature Asked For $100,000 To Be Expended In Locating and Extirminating the State's Nocturnal Scourge.

Professor John B. Smith Tells of Insect's Natural Depravity.

The introduction in the legislature of a bill appropriating $100,000 to the New Jersey agricultural experiment station to be expended under the direction of Professor John B. Smith in prosecuting his investigations of the New Jersey mosquito problem, which has been the cause of much suffering and loss of life in the State, was the subject of a long and interesting discussion in the New Jersey legislature today.

When asked by the New York Herald correspondent at Trenton what he proposed to do with the $100,000, Professor Smith, who is the entomologist of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, said:

"There are two points in view—first, the sanitary aspect, what may be called the practical side. There are many districts in New Jersey where malarial fever is prevalent. One of my plans is to send out a competent physician to map out all the malarial districts in the state. Following him, I will send a man who will make a physical examination of all those places, thus mapping with the view of ascertaining the breeding places of the malarial mosquitoes. The facts will be immediately reported to the board of health of each locality and afterward will be used in the general report to the state.

"The idea here is to give the local board of health the information they need to stamp out the disease. In a general way, it will be to apply the same principles that have been applied by the American officers in Havana and the British School of Tropical Medicine in Africa. Epidemic malaria can be stamped out entirely, and to make plain how this can be done is one of the objects of this investigation. The most recent investigators have made it certain that malaria depends for its transmission from one individual to another entirely upon mosquitoes of the genus anopheles. This has been demonstrated by the checking of yellow fever in Havana as a consequence of destroying the breeding places of that species of mosquito. In Africa the coast fever has been checked in the same way. In South Orange and some other localities individual communities have spent hundreds of dollars in attempting to avert this nuisance. The success has not been as great as it should have been because of the lack of the very knowledge this investigation is intended to supply.

"The second object includes the ridding of the shore of the salt marsh mosquitoes. These mosquitoes migrate long distances inland and make many districts in the pines uninhabitable where no mosquitoes breed locally. Besides the collectors, civil engineers will be kept in the field all the summer outlining plans for mosquito drainage. That is not a plan to drain the marshes, but to render them unfit as breeding places for the insects. One man will be employed studying the natural enemies of the mosquito, such as fish, frogs, toads, and the like. Especial attention will be given to the small fishes, with the object of introducing into ponds throughout the state those creatures that will naturally feed on mosquito larvae. Some species breed locally throughout the state, and local conditions will be carefully studied, so that directions may be given that may be carried out by individuals and local authorities."

The professor did not enter at this time into a detailed and concrete explanation of the methods that will probably be adopted for the extermination of the mosquito. These will depend very much upon the result of the investigations that are to be prosecuted. Generally speaking, these methods will comprise the introduction of larva eating fishes into mosquito breeding pools, the introduction of the tidal flow into such pools, the use of poisons, the drainage of mosquito breeding marshes, the grading and leveling of regions that harbor the insect and the removal of the shrubbery and grass that afford them cover.

The enormous effects of suppressing this pest in New Jersey can scarcely be estimated. It would amount into the millions and tens of millions. Some idea of the economic importance of the mosquito may be had from the fact that the total value of the few miles between Ocean Grove and Long Branch, in this state, which are practically free from the pest, is larger than the entire United States between New York and Cape May. If that hundred miles of shore front of unsurpassed beauty and richness could be freed from the swarms of mosquitoes that make it almost uninhabitable in summer, its value would be increased tenfold. By reason of its extensive and lovely sea front, its good roads, its lovely system and its situation in the very heart of American civilization, New Jersey is destined to become the playground of the Union, and the only state to the realization of this destiny is the mosquito. For the state to lose it, to spend $100,000 out of a surplus of millions in a program attempt to remove this obstacle would be foolish.

Tight Squeeze For a Peers.

"Only twenty inches of sitting space is to be allotted to each person," says a London newspaper, dealing with the preparations for the formal crowning of the king. Twenty inches! And for ladies who have had no training in London local railways! Tut, tut! This preposterous.

OUR NAVAL CHAPLAINS.

Rev. Dr. Strobridge Denounces the Unfair Treatment They Receive.

At the recent New York Methodist preachers' meeting the Rev. G. E. Strobridge, D. D., of Stamford, Conn., read a strong personal unfair treatment accorded to chaplains in the United States navy and criticized severely the abuses to which they are subjected.

The pay of a chaplain is $2,500, with $100 ration money. This is his salary, however, only when he is at sea. When he is on shore duty his salary is reduced to $2,000, and "when on shore duty" he is paid $1,500.

When he is on shore duty, he is obliged to rent and furnish a house or apartments at high rates in some cities, so as to be near to his place of duty, and all other naval stations are at par with the land in this respect. With the other officers who sit beside him at the table on shipboard, when they are detailed for shore duty, have simple houses of ten and twelve rooms, with furniture provided for them in the navy yard at the expense of the government. Not only in their support, but also in their dress, the chaplains are oppressed by an obvious distinction.

Three years ago a board was appointed to devise a uniform for the chaplains. This board consisted of two distinguished life officers and three chaplains. One of these chaplains was the only one of the twenty-four in the navy who opposed the use of a uniform. He brought in a minority report to that effect. The majority report advised the adoption of a fair and reasonable uniform. The secretary of the navy accepted the majority report, and yet he was apparently so influenced by the minority report that he modified the recommendations of the majority report to such a degree as to render them largely unavailing.

As a result of this action of the secretary the chaplains were given a satisfactory service uniform, but on dress occasions they are expected to wear a single-breasted, long-tailed, shawl-collared frock coat.

On account of this compromise the chaplain is ignored at all official or dress functions, among the officers whether at home or abroad.

Because this uniform of the chaplains is so essentially inferior to that of the other officers that worn by the other officers one of our most highly esteemed chaplains was ordered below decks by his admiral at Kiel when Emperor William was passing and reviewing the ships assembled there. This disgraceful incident became known throughout the service. It is true that the navy department reproved the admiral, but that could not undo the wrong inflicted upon the chaplain. When the great land parade was given in New York in honor of Admiral Dewey and the nation was thus expressing its joy in the return of the brave warrior and its gratitude to God in account of the victorious war, not a single chaplain had a part in the parade either as a participant marching on foot or as a member of the naval service riding in a carriage, and why? Simply because the uniform was not presentable.

Congress should immediately increase the number of chaplains. The present figure, twenty-four, amounts to be enough when our naval force was $900 million, is not sufficient with the navy now grown to $15,000. The result of this lack is that at present there are several of our larger ships at sea without chaplains, although one of our leading admirals says this never should be so, and some of our shore stations are also without any.

A crying demand today is that a bureau for the chaplains be organized within the navy department. Every other corps is thus provided for. The chaplains have never had an official head from their own number, as is the case with all the other departments. For instance, at the head of the surgeons is a surgeon, at the head of the paymasters is a paymaster, at the head of the naval constructors is a naval constructor, but over the chaplains is placed not a chaplain, but an admiral of the line, a perfect gentleman, of course, and a competent administrator, but of necessity out of touch with the chaplains in the tastes and feelings peculiar to their profession.

IT'S MORGAN.

Finnester Now the Subject of a Topical Song.

A popular topical song of which J. Pierpont Morgan, capitalist, art collector, philanthropist, ranchman and trust magnate, is the subject is being sung daily in New York vaudeville houses. The words of the song are as follows, says the New York Evening World.

I came to a mill by a river side,
There I saw a man as busy as a bee,
With a hammer and a saw, an army of men
Toiling at his feet, and a pen,
"What a most magnificent plant!" I cried,
When a workman in overalls replied:
"It's Morgan, it's Morgan, the great financial power, Everywhere, but the atmosphere all belongs to Morgan."

I dwell in a nation filled with pride;
Her people were many, her lands were wide,
Her wealth in work in science and art
Proved that the brains, the muscle, the heart,
"America's a grand old country!" I cried,
When a man who was out on a strike replied:
"It's Morgan, it's Morgan, the great financial power,
Everywhere, but the atmosphere all belongs to Morgan."

I went to the only place left for me,
So I boarded the boat for the bottomless pit,
I heard the sailors to sit
On the grim floor of the bottomless pit,
But a sailing ship with horns on his face
Cried out as he forked me out of the place:
"It's Morgan, it's Morgan, the great financial power,
Everywhere, but the atmosphere all belongs to Morgan."

I went to the only place left for me,
So I boarded the boat for the bottomless pit,
